OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY INTERNATIONAL UNDERGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

The Ohio State University's main Columbus campus is one of America's largest and most comprehensive. More than 55,000 students select from 14 colleges, 175 undergraduate majors, and 240 master's, doctoral, and professional degree programs. As Ohio's best and one of the nation's top-20 public universities, Ohio State is further recognized by a top-rated academic medical center and a premier cancer hospital and research center.

The Ohio State University is committed to enrolling a diverse and talented student population. The International Undergraduate Scholarship is offered on a competitive basis to qualified full-time, Columbus campus international freshmen who are required to pay the nonresident tuition surcharge. Those considered have ACT composite scores of 28 or higher or combined SAT Critical Reading and Math scores of 1260 or higher, and are applying for autumn semester.

HOWARD HUGHES MEDICAL INSTITUTE INTERNATIONAL STUDENT RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS

Northwestern University combines innovative teaching and pioneering research in a highly collaborative environment that transcends traditional academic boundaries. It provides students and faculty exceptional opportunities for intellectual, personal and professional growth in a setting enhanced by the richness of Chicago.

Howard Hughes Medical Institute (HHMI) International Student Research Fellowships support outstanding international predoctoral students studying in the United States who are ineligible for fellowships or training grants through U.S. federal agencies. HHMI will award three-year fellowships to international students to support years three, four, and five of a Ph.D. program. Eligible biomedical-related fields include biology, chemistry, physics, math, computer science, engineering, and plant biology—as well as interdisciplinary research.

THE RESEARCH CENTER FOR URBAN CULTURAL HISTORY FELLOWSHIPS

The University of Massachusetts Boston is nationally recognized as a model of excellence for urban public universities. It is the second-largest campus in the UMass system, and combines a small-college experience with the vast resources of a major research university.

The Research Center for Urban Cultural History at the University of Massachusetts Boston is offering a 3-4 week short-term visiting fellowship for Spring 2013. The RCUCH Flaherty Visiting Fellow will pursue a research project pertaining to urban cultural history; the project must be interdisciplinary, and be focused on the cultural history of cities, urban life, urban networks, urban materials or urban experience. The RCUCH invites applications with preference given to scholars at associate professor rank or above.

CLARK UNIVERSITY GRADUATE SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT LAUNCHES MBA IN SUSTAINABILITY

Clark University Graduate School of Management (GSOM) launches MBA in Sustainability. This innovative program couples the principles of environmental sustainability with the business strategies and fundamentals necessary to achieve responsible management at both the local and global level.

“GSOM has been offering sustainability courses for more than 15 years, and through this concentration we are formalizing our offerings by providing students with a chance to be recognized as tomorrow’s sustainability leaders in their organizations,” said Joseph Sarkis, GSOM professor of management and a leading global expert in green supply chain management and operations sustainability.

An MBA in Sustainability from Clark will prepare graduates for today’s evolving job market—one in which for-profit and not-for-profit organizations increasingly seek sustainability managers with both a background in science and a deep understanding of strategy, business processes, management practices and government policy.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS GET A TASTE OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Sport Management Professor Nick Watanabe delivered a lecture at Beijing Sport University. In trying to use baseball and football to explain commercial opportunities, it became clear that the example was lost on most students since they were unfamiliar with the American sports.

In order to bridge this cultural gap, Watanabe created an event for 150 international students at the University of Missouri to meet with the college's football team and learn about the rules and nature of the game.

At the event, international students will learn about the lives of student-athletes, tour facilities, participate in an on-field clinic, and eat lunch at a tailgate. The hope is that international students will come to understand America's passion for football, and get excited and participate in college football Saturdays.
