UNIVERSITY OF TULSA LAUNCHES NEW LAW CONCENTRATION IN ENERGY

The University of Tulsa College of Law has launched a new Energy Concentration of the masters of law (LL.M) in American law for foreign lawyers. Through the Energy Law concentration, students examine legal and policy approaches for achieving the important goals of energy reliability, sustainable supplies of natural resources, and a healthy environment.

Students pursuing the Energy Law concentration will benefit from The University of Tulsa's legacy as an oil and gas industry research powerhouse and its diverse energy programs in engineering, business, law, environmental protection and information security. TU Law has long been strong in energy, indigenous peoples and natural resources law. Despite being a private university with an intimate faculty to student ratio and state of the art facilities, at $20,000 the LL.M. is still one of the most affordable of Top 100 Law Schools.

Learn more about the program, see a virtual tour of the law school, learn more about The University of Tulsa, the city of Tulsa, the law professors and application process at our website.

TENNESSEE TECH AND FLS INTERNATIONAL OFFER ESL AND CONDITIONAL ADMISSIONS

Tennessee Tech University and FLS International have joined together to offer ESL and Conditional admissions for our intensive ESL programs. Students may start any week and students who complete level 7 may enter TTU without a TOEFL score.

This program helps students develop their reading, writing, vocabulary and listening & speaking skills. Students have the option of adding elective courses such as TOEFL, idioms, American slang and survival English. The FLS International course is located across the street from the Office of International Students affairs and the students have the option of living on or off campus in the residence halls or homestays.

TEXAS UNIVERSITIES BACK BILL TO ALLOCATE VISAS TO HIGH-TECH FOREIGN STUDENTS

Senator John Cornyn (R – TX) recently “filed the Securing the Talent America Requires for the 21st Century, or STAR Act, to bolster U.S. economic competitiveness.”

If passed, this legislation would allow 55,000 visas to international students who complete programs of study in the United States “and have job offers in related fields.” The visas allocated in this bill would be taken from a congressional program that provides “opportunities for immigrants to come to the United States from countries with low historical rates of immigration.” Various universities in Texas also support this bill.
